

VINALHAVEN II "AT HOME"

New Craft Arrives In Port Wednesday To Get a Joyful Welcome

The long awaited new boat, Vinalhaven II, went into Vinalhaven harbor Wednesday night at 7:15, sounding her whistle as she approached the dock, where a large crowd was gathered to greet her. Town whistles saluted her arrival, and the church bell rang.

The Vinalhaven II is a fine looking craft, and was built for service between Vinalhaven and Rockland by the Southwest Boat Corporation at Southwest Harbor.

She was designed by Builders Naval Architect, Cyrus Hamlin, and measures 64 feet overall, 18 feet extreme beam, 8 feet draft, and is powered by a 150 h. p. Fairbanks-Morse Diesel engine. Her cruising speed 10 knots.

The boat has comfortable passenger accommodations in her after cabin, and cargo will be carried on deck and in the hold. Both her cargo handling machinery and safety devices are very up-to-date.

Arriving on the boat were A. A. Peterson, A. E. Libby and Harry Swanson.

Arrives In Rockland

The Vinalhaven II, Captain Charles Philbrook, arrived at McLoon's wharf at 9:45 this morning on her first trip from Vinalhaven. There were 30 passengers aboard.

The first line was caught by Charles Hafford of Rockland, carrier of U. S. mail from Rockland Post Office to planes and boats.

Among those to greet the staunch craft on her first trip were: Mayor Edward R. Veazie, Alderman Louis R. Bates, Ralph Brown, agent for the line, Lenore B. Savage, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Albert C. McLoon, Joshua N. Southard, Donald C. Leach, David Roberts of Vinalhaven, Allen V. Sawyer, former Vinalhaven resident; Hiram Ingerson, former steamboat employee; Clifford Melvin, A. J. Chase of Thomaston, J. A. Moore, Arthur L. Rokes, George W. Phillips, Ray Sherman of The Courier-Gazette and several employees of McLoon Co.

The return trip to Vinalhaven is planned for 3:15 today.

Capt. Philbrook's crew consists of Stillman Osgood, engineer; Ned Kessel, Frank Philbrook, Shirley Bunker and Charles Warren, deck hands, all of Vinalhaven.

The first trip was made in one hour and 20 minutes.

Canning Center Open

TWICE IN A CONVOY

Second Officer Myron Young Tells of Two Voyages To North Africa

Myron E. Young, second officer of a Merchant Marine ship, which has figured in two convoys bound for North Africa, is home on a short furlough, relating to intimate friends some of his interesting experiences, against which his lips are not sealed. His ship on both voyages escaped torpedoing, but the shrapnel specimens which fell on the deck and which he brought home as souvenirs, tell of his close proximity to air warfare.

It will interest Knox County readers to know that his ship is in command of a former schoolmate, Edwin Knowles of South Thomaston.

With Mrs. Ivy P. Brackett and Mrs. Ralph B. Feyler, canning center chairman.

Surplus produce which can be canned for use in the school lunch program this winter is greatly needed and it would be appreciated if anyone having any spare produce would send it to the center for canning.

Volunteers who have been working this week include Mrs. H. P. Blodgett, Miss Caroline Jameson, Miss Alice Erskine, Miss Mabel A. Spring, Mrs. Theodore M. Strong, Mrs. Thomas H. Chisholm, Mrs. P. E. Anderson, Mrs. Keryn ap Rice, Miss Sarah Block, Mrs. Hattie Barbour, Mrs. Luke S. Davis, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Winston Brannan, Mrs. Ralph Stone, Mrs. Walter C. Ladd and Mrs. Joseph Emery, Sr.

While the electric current was off Monday afternoon on account of the fire at Damariscotta the center was transferred to St. Peter's Church Undercroft, where canning proceeded without use of electricity.

For the benefit of those who may wish to estimate their canning needs or possibilities, the following table has been supplied by the directors: 1 bushel greens equals 4 to 6 quarts; 1 bushel string beans will yield 16 quarts; 1 bushel peas will yield 14 quarts and 32 quarts of raspberries will yield 16 quarts.

They had not seen each other in 23 years, and the reunion was one which was as happy as it was unexpected.

Young went onto the ship rating as third mate but was soon advanced to his present status. Beyond the selective service age he was not compelled to seek the perilous service in which he is now engaged. He might have remained at home following his peacetime vocation and attending Knox County Grange meetings, but five years in the Merchant Marine service beginning in 1919, after the close of the first World War, had left their impress, and back he went into the service, determined to do his bit toward winning the war.

His first experience in the Merchant Marine service was coastwise when he dodged rocks and reefs instead of bombs and torpedoes. He is enjoying his new experience as a deep sea sailor far better, and says he has seen things he never dreamed of seeing, among them a riddled French warship, and hundreds of enemy craft which had been put out of commission.

He has even ridden in a jeep, which is said to be some experience when you do it as it is done in North Africa.

He came within five minutes of being the victim of a demolition bomb which wrecked everything in the vicinity.

Masonry is taboo where Young has been, the residents who belong to that fraternity fearing what would happen to them if the war went the Axis way. He tells of meeting one Mason who was overjoyed when he learned that Young was a fraternal brother. He insisted upon the Rockland man going to his home, where he and his wife kissed him on both cheeks. They introduced him to other members of the Masonic fraternity, and after that Myron could have had anything in town for the asking.

Men who serve in the Merchant Marine are highly regarded in North Africa and are always saluted by the service men there.

"The boys over there are doing a splendid job," said Young. "They are anxious to get back home but are making no complaint about conditions there. The war is far from over. We have got Africa back again, but have not met the real opposition. From Italy on it is going to be much worse."

Young estimates that he has traveled 15,000 miles since his second entry into the Merchant Marine service.

He arrived home to find himself a "papa"—or so it appeared, for the local rationing board had notified his wife of what the family was entitled to with the appearance of her newborn child. But it was a case of "crossed wires" for some other "Mrs. Florence Young" must have been meant.

Young is ready and waiting for the word which will call him to his third crossing of the enemy-ridden Atlantic.

BUSY DAYS IN KNOX COUNTY

Rep. Margaret Chase Smith Encounters the Summer's Worst Weather and the World's Best People

If Representative Margaret Chase Smith expected any dull moments during her three days' visit to Knox County she was doomed to disillusionment for she was in demand from early morning until late night, and missed no appointments in spite of the surprise blackout and the heavy and prolonged electrical storms.

At Damariscotta she had found herself in the midst of all the excitement attending the conflagration, so she is not to be blamed for wondering what may happen in Waldo County, which she invades today.

At Thomaston Mrs. Smith was a guest at the Knox Hotel, and during her stay in this city was registered at Hotel Rockland, meeting many friends at both hosteries. Here she made headquarters at the Grand Jury room in the Court House, meeting many constituents, with whom she discussed affairs pertaining to her congressional duties, and touching upon politics only when her callers brought up the subject.

In Wednesday's storm, with Mayor Edward R. Veazie as escort,

"I appreciate and agree with your article that boys should do chores about the home as in days of old," writes Mrs. Marion Young of Matineus. "I am an old fashioned parent with plenty of shed room and a shingle 143 years old, but send me the boy! We have but one boy on our Island—he is 13 years old, is a good boy and in such demand that no one has any desire to apply the shingle."

Clarence works at Snow's Shipyards and in the course of yesterday's storm got a good wetting. Discarding his sport shirt he wound it around two electric light globes to dry. Engrossed in his work he did not seek the shirt for some time. When he did the garment was dry. Very dry, what was left of it.

The extremities to which the daily newspapers are now being put, due to the rationing of newsprint is seen locally in the Boston newspapers some of which carry only 12 or 14 pages on certain days. The Baltimore Sun has found another way to conserve space, and paper by carrying only a few columns of classified ads in the out of town editions.

Rockland has twins who look alike and talk alike so much so that their own folks have difficulty in telling them apart. And judging from the incident here related they must have some difficulty in telling themselves apart. Of course you all know who I mean—Harold Leach, assistant to the president at Snow's Shipyards; and Donald Leach of A. C. McLoon & Co's staff. Harold had occasion to see his brother on a business matter and went to the latter's office in the McLoon plant. He saw his brother approaching and asked the question which was in his mind. To his surprise Don made no reply, and it was then that Harold discovered he had been talking to him-

Tackles Coast Guard

Pirates Will Play Outfit At Community Park Sunday Afternoon

The Pirates' won over the Camden Army team Sunday by a 5 to 3 score. Kelley, first Pirate batter, doubled on the first pitch and scored on two infield outs. Camden failed to score until the seventh when two long dives and an outfield fly scored both.

In Camden's eighth, with one down and two on, Colbroth made a spectacular catch in deep left field and doubled a runner off second to end a rally.

Kinney pitched seven innings and struck out 11 Army batters while Kelley in his two innings did not allow an Army hit.

Verge and Kelley starred in the field for Rockland, while the Camden left fielder made the best catch of the day for Camden when he raced almost to second base to steal a hit from Bun Thompson.

Rockland 1 0 2 0 0 2 0 0 0-5

Batteries, Boatright and Adams; Kelley, Kinney and Thompson.

Sunday at 3 o'clock the strong Coast Guard team will tackle the Pirates who are looking for their second straight win. The Coast Guard has a lot of talent stationed here and promise the Pirates plenty of opposition. Kinney and Thompson will be the Pirate battery while Kelley will play first. Freddy Wink third, and Verge of Thomaston shortstop to give the Pirates a snappy infield.

An Exciting Trip

Police Ambulance Overtakes While Conveying Patient To Portland

Rockland's police patrol and ambulance was badly damaged yesterday morning when it left the highway in Falmouth Foreside and turned over on its side. The accident occurred on a bad curve in difficult driving circumstances, there being heavy fog and slippery road conditions.

The patrol was driven by Clarence P. Ingerson and was occupied by Paul Gallagher, U. S. Coast Guard and Patrolman Myron C. Drinkwater, who were taking Franklin Demmons, about 27, of 67 Park street to the Eastern Maine General Hospital, Portland. Demmons, delirious and said to be suffering from spinal meningitis, was taken to Portland on request of Dr. Freeman F. Brown, his physician.

Portland police were notified and sent a patrol out to take Demmons the remaining six miles. Mr. Mansfield, who was in his car to Portland at 6 a. m., yesterday, reported on return by bus last night at 6:30, that Demmons was quieted at about noon and that treatment was being made in accordance with Dr. Brown's diagnosis.

The local patrol wagon is in a Portland garage awaiting decision as to the making of repairs. Drinkwater, Ingerson and Gallagher returned to Rockland in Mr. Mansfield's automobile.

Sgt. Emily Winslow of Vinalhaven, who is stationed at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, as a member of the WAC military police was a recent visitor at the local WAC recruiting station.

Miss E. Howard of Chicago, aunt of Corp. June E. Ehrlich is a guest at the Hotel Rockland this week, while visiting her niece.

Miss Lysla Abbott, children's librarian at Portland Public library, was week-end guest of Lieut. Dorothy L. Kenna at Restmore cottage, Ingraham's Hill.

Lieut. Kenna reports an increase in interest in the WAC due to the new law which places the corps in the Army. Several Rockland women signed applicants for membership the past week.

Thomas H. Young, 19, of Matineus, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court yesterday to taking an automobile owned by Frederick Tripp of Cribhaven, Saturday night, which was parked near the Hunter Machine Shop on Tillson's Wharf. Young was picked up by Marshal Laurence P. Mansfield, Sunday. He was bound over to the September term of Superior Court, bail being set at $500. Young is said also to be A.W.O.L. from the Army. He is confined in Knox County jail.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

VACATION IS NEAR

The busy year has come to a close, and though I thought I was long. Today my heart is happy and I sing a cheerful song: For now, at length, vacation-time brings work its glad "amen." And fast as I can make my way I'm going home again.

The year has brought me countless joys, I'm grateful for them all. The friendships formed, the lessons learned, with profit I recall: And even disappointments met, and failure now and then.

Are easier to think of as I face toward home again.

The grace and joy of life are found by those engaged in work. Who sing the praise of men who daily duties shun and shirk? And when the records written with a labor over, welcomed to the house not made by men.

In Heaven, as here, we shall rejoice to be at home again.

TO THE FOLKS IN TOWN

Thousands of communities will be faced with one of their major responsibilities of this war when the crops are ready for canning and processing.

If the food is not quickly harvested and canned when the time comes, it will be lost. Usual sources of extra help on the farms and in the canning plants are not available.

I therefore appeal to every patriotic citizen of these communities—men and women, boys and girls—to make their plans to go into the local canning and processing plants or into the fields or orchards to help save America's crops.

This work is serious. You will of course be paid for it. Work as long as you possibly can—as many days—as many weeks.

Only with whole-hearted co-operation of all citizens can we give our fighters and our allies the food we need to win.

Book Review

(By K. S. F.)

"Moonset." Author Margaret Gruen. Publisher, L. B. Fischer, New York.

And why not a term thus? We speak of sunset, then why not moonset? "Of course I coined it myself," said Margaret.

This author tells us she was born in Cambridge, Mass., and that she is one-half Irish and the other half D.A.R. I have lived in Paris, London, California and all over New England and I am always homesick for the ever-changing permanence of the New England hills, she says.

Time of the story begins in the winter of 1917, through to the autumn of 1918, showing the ups and downs, the ins and outs of life in the theatrical world, too often loose, foolish and tragic, searching always for excitement and thrills, forgetting most times the practical and highest ideals that make for permanence in pleasure.

Only those who seek stories with futility as its goal find time spent reading this class of book worth while.

The author is sprightly and original in her thought, drawing children in a beguiling and human manner. As in all recent stories, the constant turning to drink almost intoxicates the reader in his thought of the amount consumed. A most unconventional cheap and light story.

That Fish Should Be Sold To Highest Bidder—Moose To Solve Meat Problem

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

A great deal has been said of how and what to do about the marine fisheries on the Atlantic coast. Of course fish are, always have, and always will be a valuable food. Let there be a ceiling price if it is necessary, but not less than a certain amount.

Having been associated with different branches of the fisheries of Maine, both as a producer and distributor, I believe in an open market for the fishermen. Let the fish be sold to the highest bidder, whether for one cent a pound or 50 cents a pound. This I believe would immediately attract the fishermen to their occupations and relieve a shortage of so vital a food.

When the present measurement of lobsters was suggested in Augusta this writer was at that hearing. We, the proponents, at that time said that the smaller lobsters were like a reserve in a bank—to be drawn from when needed. That was a wonderful piece of legislation. Ask any lobster catcher if he would like to go back to the old method of measurement.

With fish as a vital food so is meat; everyone will agree to that. Well, keep politics out of it. Allow the Maine people an open season on bull moose, say for two weeks. If a hunter kills a moose, one-half should become the property of the hunter, the other half to belong to the State to be sold at retail in stores—absolutely without ration stamps. This perhaps would help the meat shortage.

Whatever the occupation of our Maine people may be, we feel quite capable of taking care of ourselves in any company. Give to Maine a free hand, we will show the way out of a wilderness of despair to a beautiful road to sunshine and happiness. Thanks for reading.

Freeman S. Young.

[EDITORIAL]

While this newspaper has at times shown a tendency to criticize that well known radio commentator Gabriel Heater, COLLEGE MAN it is in full accord with his persistent campaign in behalf of the white collar man who more than anybody else in the world, is just now "the forgotten man." All around him has suddenly sprung up a mushroom growth of war workers and other laborers who are now receiving about as much wages per diem as some of them formerly received per week, providing they were on a payroll at all. Living prices have soared in common with these inflated wages, and the man who must meet them is the white collar worker whose modest salary has remained unchanged through this period of what may prove temporary prosperity. In other words the white collar man is being penalized for what the other fellow receives. We hope that Gabriel Heater will continue his campaign—and that somebody will see the light.

WELCH STAYS ON THE JOB

What we have no knowledge of the reason which impelled John H. Welch to resign his position as warden of the Maine State Prison, but we do have every cause to feel gratified that the difficulty—whatever it was—was promptly straightened out, and the resignation withdrawn. Warden Welch has served at the institution for six years, and it has been a period of progressive upbuilding, as to morale, industry, finances and agriculture, until today the penitentiary is one of the best and one of the best handled in the country. Before coming to Thomaston Mr. Welch had valuable experience as a sheriff, business man and farmer, and he has successfully applied it to the management of this institution. For the benefit of the State it is hoped there will be no change for a long time to come.

WHAT ITALY WOULD REALLY LIKE TO DO IS TO DO LIKE THE ITALIAN SOLDIERS APPEAR TO DO

Sicily where the Italian soldiers appear to welcome the opportunity to surrender, and where the British-American forces are being hailed as deliverers. But the bulk of the Italian Army is doubtless under the dominating influence of the coward, Mussolini, who dares not knuckle for two reasons—one being that he has no stomach for swinging at the end of a rope, and the other being that his boss, Hitler, wouldn't want him to. And this leaves the Allied Nations propounding a very timely interrogation to the Italian people: "Would you prefer to die with Mussolini and Hitler, or be delivered from tyranny by the Allies?"

TOO MANY KNOCKS FROM KNOX

Secretary Knox chides the American people for their "criminally careless optimism" because of what he chooses to belittle as a few minor successes. Of course everybody sees what is in the back of the Navy Secretary's mind—he doesn't want the American people to become optimistic to the extent of carelessness, or to the extent of letting down on necessary war production. But from the very start of the war Secretary Knox has been prone to broadcast pessimism instead of optimism, whereas it has always seemed to us that fighters can do much better with a pat on the back than a thump on the shins.

WHEN WINTER COMES

If this is the great Summer offensive which the Germans are conducting what may we expect from the dawn of another Russian Winter? Providing, of course, that there are still any Germans left there to fight.

TREASURES VERSUS CHILDREN

What will be the effect of the bombing of Rome? There has been virtually complete approval from the peoples of the United Nations, whatever their church connections. Probably the effect on the Italian people will be no worse than the bombing of other cities. Indeed, it may help to bring home the fact that the only escape is to throw out Mussolini and Hitler.

There are those who know Italy well who have held that her few main railway lines could be cut by repeated bombing in the country districts—which would make it plain to the people that the Allies were trying to avoid hitting civilians. But the military men argue that such attacks would be far more difficult to carry out and would do little damage to collections of rolling stock and supplies in city railway yards.

In any such calculations Rome should get no more consideration than any other military center—Mussolini had refused to declare it an open city. Untrammelled minds have more than once asked, "Why this exaggerated concern for stones and bricks? We all wish to preserve the treasures of civilization. But are they of greater worth than the lives of little children?" If bombing is necessary—and even the most careful bombing of military targets may do other damage—in order to halt barbarism, then let us be clear about our objects. Let compassion for the oppressed and liberation of the enslaved come before worship of relics. Let no confusion or fear prevent the pursuit and destruction of criminal systems, no matter where they hide. Let the purpose be to uphold truth and justice rather than to gain vengeance or vainglory and these hard choices can be made with confidence. But it may be well for the peoples of the United Nations to have such occasions as this to re-examine their motives and refine the purity of their purposes.—Christian Science Monitor.

Hilltop Thoughts

And Recollections They Bring Of the Evensongs Heard In Our Youth

Everyone's life has its moments of quiet adventure, when rest and a quiet space of time has given hearts rebound in joyous strength and clearer thinking.

Rich experience is the natural consequence, when human beings allow this sublime thing to happen to them.

Take time to think back on events in your life that were worth while. Most of us are flooded with happy and rich memories.

Sunday evening sings in my childhood still cast their fragrant memories through golden pictures of rare enjoyment, that came to me on these occasions, and still linger in mind. I hear and remember at times words and songs of those events.

Those evenings took from my heart all tired and troubled thoughts and revived in me strength and desire to press forward into all that is best in life. Association values are the ones that count highest in memories chalice of treasures.

If one has not these for reflective strength, something has been wrong with one's living. Either we have lived selfishly, self-centered, or mem-home recently on ten days' furlough. His new address is: Pfc. Carl F. Jonasson 31220392, Co. E, 321st Infantry, A.P.O. 81, care postmaster, Los Angeles, Calif.

Pfc. William Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Hopkins of Rockland, is in Colorado. His address: 10th T.S.S., Bks., 873 Lowry Field, Denver, Col.

Corp. Oliver Frankowski son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frankowski of Thomaston, who has been stationed at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, has been transferred to Camp Adair, Oregon.

Pfc. William Burns, of Grenier Field, N. H., is home on a short leave.

Private First Class Herbert R. Linnell was promoted July 15 to Corporal. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Roberts of Star Route South Thomaston. Corp. Linnell entered the service at Camp Devens, Mass., June 1, 1943. After receiving his basic training at Camp Devens he received additional training at Embury Riddle School of Aviation.

He is now in training with the Service Squadron attached to this Group at Greenville Service Group Training Center.

ories have been desecrated by experiences tragic, and best forgotten. Humanized memories, someone has said, enter into the alliance with man, which is the fundamental condition of beauty.

The man or woman who can hark back to early life in New England—bleak and severe as much of it may be remembered, has more of golden framework for the "days than otherwise. Out in the great modern West there are few, softened by time, very old homes. Mostly spaces abound in quickly built modern structures.

Recently I have received a book called "Sense of Humas" that has driven thought deep into my heart with its human kindness in every page. "Stays" is a charming word in a friend's vocabulary. Who isn't inspired with hope and pleasure when invited to stay a bit longer than the scheduled time.

Then there are hill tops that register in memory and there one has challenged the stars with brightest hope—rich, one is apt to feel; high above the heads of the most towering buildings, borrowed ecstasy fills one as breezes sweep through with laughter, hope and sureness of the morrow.

Did you ever pause to wonder if one might wish to say only what one desires most? Vision is really not so much a matter of retina, pupil or even cornea, but composed sometimes of imagination and hope with possibly some mysterious chemical reaction for picturing. How many have resolved on a new and stronger life when on a hilltop? If by chance a staunch old veteran tree came clearly into their vision, and waved its heroic limbs with fluttering leaves—a gesture for courage.

Do most of us protest at fate and its mighty vortex of no compromise for anyone? Are too many of us just idealists wishing always for easy assured futures for ourselves, with too little thought of our duty to the world we are a part and should be striving for perfection. All the reflections came from a climb up the hill, with memories in retrospect. Take an hour or two of these lovely Summer days and climb to Middle street hill where one views the grand old ocean and a turn of the head gives you mountains and valleys of rare beauty and poetry. Wait for the over abundant treasured sunset, with bells ringing for even-song, and church tunes calling. Members to that sacred hour when we cast our burdens at the feet of our Heavenly Father with prayers for His guidance in bringing peace.

Kathleen S. Fuller.

The fact that the auditorium of the beautiful old Baptist Church at Damariscotta received not one drop of water while Rockland firemen successfully fought fire in its blazing 110 foot steeple was hailed as a real tribute to the efficiency of the local fire fighters by those who witnessed the battle which occurred at the height of the conflagration. Chief Russell gives credit to his men and to the extreme power of the streams from Rockland's Mack pumper, biggest engine working at the fire. A $5000 carpet had but lately been laid in the church.

Among the officials confirmed by the Executive Council Wednesday was Lavinia Elliot of Thomaston as a Normal School trustee; and Ralph K. Barter of Stonington as trustee of the Maine Maritime Academy.

Frank A. Winslow, editor of The Courier-Gazette, will be the speaker at Rotary Club meeting this noon. The directors will meet at the First National Bank today at 1:35 p. m. Members attending meetings away from home recently were: Homer E. Robinson at Augusta; H. P. Blodgett, E. B. Crockett, E. Carl Moran and Roland G. Ware at Camden.

Several singers from this city will join the Thomaston Baptist Choral Society group in chorals by Rossini and Rachmaninoff at the concert Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Thomaston Baptist Church.

Mrs. Wilbur T. Fuller has sold her house on upper Pleasant street to Kenneth George of Arkville, New York. Mr. and Mrs. George and sons, Fred and Warren, will occupy the house shortly. Mrs. Fuller is to reside in Camden.

John A. Black has moved into the John A. Frost house on Grace street.

Ralph L. Brown of Vinalhaven is at the home of his brother, Dr. Freeman F. Brown. Mr. Brown, who is to be agent for the Vinalhaven II, new vessel for the Vinalhaven-Rockland line, is to reside, with his family, at 61 Rankin street. The Vinalhaven II is expected to arrive here today, or as soon as the weather clears, and will be put on the route after the compass is adjusted. The craft will operate on the present schedule, leaving Rockland at 6 a. m., and 3:15 p. m., until new schedule is approved by the postoffice department.

Sophocles T. Constantine, 68 Mechanic street, telephoned Deputy Marshal Bridges last night that he thought he had discovered a stick of dynamite in some line which he was using for sanitary purposes. Marshal Mansfield investigated promptly, bringing to the police office a limerock "core" measuring two inches long and one inch in diameter. The "core" was contained in a bag of lime refuse obtained from the Rockland & Rockport Lime Company.

Knox County Chapter Surgical Dressings committee is pleased to announce the addition of the Samoset Hotel guests to those doing this important work. Two mornings a week are given, the workers meeting in the hotel ballroom.

Next Winter's Oil

Mail Your Applications To The Rationing Board At Once

All occupants of oil-heated homes should return their applications for next winter's oil rations to their War Price and Rationing Boards promptly, if possible within the next 48 hours. Maurice B. Perry, Chairman of the Knox County War Price and Rationing Board, declared today. While there is no deadline for filing applications, it is very possible that those who delay may have difficulty in getting supplies before the first cold weather arrives next fall. Mr. Perry pointed out.

Distribution of the simple renewal application form to householders who received a ration of fuel oil last year was completed several days ago, the Chairman reported. Many of these have been returned, and the Board has already processed applications and mailed new rations to a large number of applicants. These householders are thus able to make immediate arrangements with their dealers to fill their fuel tanks before the cold weather sets in. The importance of making these arrangements early was stressed by Mr. Perry.

"Dealers can give consumers better delivery service throughout the year if they can begin deliveries in the summer," he said. "This helps them solve manpower and truck shortage problems, and it also enables them to add appreciably to the total storage capacity in the rationed area."

"All dealers may not be able, because of lack of supply, to make deliveries immediately in individual cases, but public co-operation in placing orders early will enable dealers to serve their customers ahead of any weather emergency, and to use their delivery equipment more efficiently."

"The value of the units on the coupons for Period One is 10 gallons—thus 1 unit coupons are good for 10 gallons; 5 units for 50 gallons and 25 unit coupons are good for 250 gallons."

"Early returns coming in to District OPA offices in New England indicate that many people are finding it possible to get along with less oil than last year. One District reports that 600 applicants have agreed to a reduction totalling 54,000 gallons or an average reduction of 90 gallon per applicant. In another District 900 applicants have volunteered to take 100,000 gallons less. In another, 800 people are taking 1,000,000 gallons less and still another District shows a reduction of 50,000 gallons on 2000 applications."

"Public co-operation can also help the rationing boards," Mr. Perry stated.

"The Boards, which will be busy with other rationing programs later, are best equipped to handle fuel oil applications now. Customers can be best assured that their applications will be handled promptly if they file them early."

"It is also important that dealers and the Government have immediately the information which applicants for renewals will provide about the amount and kind of oil rations that each consumer requires. This information tells dealers and the Government how much of each type of oil to bring into each neighborhood throughout next year."

"Consumers were cautioned not to mail their application to District, State or Regional offices of OPA, but to the local War Price and Rationing Boards."

The Knox County Red Cross Workers Made More Than Half Million Dressings

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—The Knox County chairman of Red Cross Surgical Dressings, Mrs. E. K. Leighton, announces that the results of a year of work have now been checked and counted. Our work rooms have reckoned a total of 33,382 hours of employment. The time clock was punched 14,581 times by the workers, and the production amounted to 553,985 dressings.

Surgical dressing rooms have been established in Appletton, A. H. Point, Camden Friendship, Hope, North Haven, Owl's Head, Port Clyde, Rockland, South Thomaston, Spruce Head, Tenant's Harbor, Thomaston, Union, Vinalhaven, Warren, Wiley's Corner and Washington. The thanks of the Chapter are due to the large number of Knox County women who have taken part.

The Knox County Red Cross Raised $21,714 In War Fund Drive

The annual meeting of the Knox County Chapter, American Red Cross, was held in the Community Building last Thursday, with 14 present from Camden and eight from Rockland.

Since the quota set by National for this Chapter was $18,800, the oversubscription is gratifying testimony to the diligence of the workers and the generosity of the public. The sum of $15,199.85 has been forwarded to National, the share of Knox County in the vast Red Cross war program.

Reports were rendered by Mrs. S. Eugene Lamb, chairman of Production, J. M. Pomeroy, chairman for disaster, Mrs. H. P. Blodgett, Volunteer Nurses Aides, and K. A. Rice Chapter Home Service. By proxy, reports were rendered for the Motor Corps, Rockland Junior Red Cross, and the Blood Donor committee which has been conducted with such ability by Mrs. Arthur McDonald, Thomaston. It is regretted that more Chairmen of Activities could not have been present or represented, to give a better picture of our activities to the out-of-town members, especially as most of the results have been so satisfactory.

The new executive committee comprises H. C. Newbegin, Rev. E. O. Kenyon, J. M. Pomeroy, H. P. Blodgett, Arthur Orne, Frederic Bird, all of Rockland; Rev. William E. Berger and Allen P. Payson of Camden; Edward Dornan of Thomaston.

Welch Will Remain

Withdraws Resignation As Prison Warden After Talk In Augustaa

Warden John H. Welch of the Maine State Prison submitted his resignation in a sudden move but later withdrew it and decided to stay on the job, Harrison C. Greenleaf, state institutional commissioner, said Thursday.

"Warden Welch came to Augustaa and personally handed to me his written resignation," Greenleaf said, "but after we had engaged in a discussion of certain matters, he withdrew his letter of resignation and decided to stay on the job."

Greenleaf declined to say what prompted Welch's move or intimate the nature of the discussion which Greenleaf said took place between the two.

Appointed by Gov. Lewis O. Barrows in 1937, Welch, a former Aroostook County sheriff, was renominated about a year ago by Gov. Sumner Sewall.

healthy; but children are going to be born, then God and there are not going to be enough physicians to give the care we have been used to. It is at our annual meetings that we should lay plans to cope with these difficulties.

Rockland Lions

Hearty Welcome For Rep. Margaret Chase Smith, Who Votes Her Convictions

The smaller dining hall at Hotel Rockland was filled to capacity Wednesday when the Lions Club had as guest speaker Representative Margaret Chase Smith. Stating that her Rockland visits always came on Wednesdays, Mrs. Smith said she had come to feel almost a member of the Lions Club and the organization would certainly make her one if women were admissible.

Introduced by the chairman of the entertainment committee, Dr. Dana S. Newman, Mrs. Smith first told of her work as a member of the Naval Affairs Committee when she went, with four other Congressmen into five widely scattered congested areas to study general conditions. All of the hearings were open and anybody who had anything to say was free to speak.

Mrs. Smith found it anything but a junketing trip. "I didn't have time to go into a store or a hairdresser while I was away," she said. The committee was termed by somebody as a "vice commission," and it did study moral conditions. On one occasion Mrs. Smith went alone and unannounced to one of the tenderloin districts. In one city the committee found that food distribution was on the basis of 1941 conditions, although the population had more than quadrupled. In Virginia she visited a jail where the woman's room contained 91 persons, although designed for 25.

The report of the investigations, with recommendations, was made within 10 days, Mrs. Smith said.

Declaring that fish is a vital food Mrs. Smith said that something must be done for the fishermen, and not a day goes by when the Maine delegation is not doing its utmost. She expressed her contempt for a woman speaker who had said that laborers should get along without beefsteak and other meats, and live on salads and fruits.

Commenting upon her letters and the words she receives from correspondents in her district, Mrs. Smith said that the mail was a good guide but usually from one side only. "I finally vote as I think right," she said.

She expressed doubt that the new anti-strike bill will prove effective, but if it does she will feel regret that she did not vote for it. "It looks as if we are doing better on the war front than on the home front," said Mrs. Smith. "We are giving the military officials and the boys across everything they need."

Mrs. Smith predicted that this coast is going to have more oil. "But how can there be more vacation gas than there was the first of April?" she wanted to know. Oil and coal have got to get here earlier. Until we do we should attend to our own driving and see that we get the fuel places filled up. The card of appreciation handed to Mrs. Smith at the close of her talk is one she promises to frame, because it bore the penmanship of Lion Henry A. Howard who is the oldest man in the country doing that kind of work, at which he is such an adept.

Leon Crockett of Camden, George Rees of Bangor, John W. Trott of South Portland, Walter H. Barstow, Harold P. Blodgett, Maurice F. Lovejoy, Stuart C. Burgess, A. Alan Grossman, Rev. J. Charles MacDonald and Joseph Emery were guests at the meeting.

FROM OBSERVATION POSTS

Rockland Observer Was At Pearl Harbor—Volunteers At Friendship

The Rockland Observation Post will lose one of its most faithful observers this week when Mrs. Vera Warner leaves for Moffett Field, Sunnyvale, Calif., to join her husband, Aviation Chief Machinists Mate Clyde O. Warner, U.S.N., who has recently been assigned to duty there.

Mrs. Warner and her daughter, Jeanne Bailey, were at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, through the bombing, and for the next three months until returning to Rockland. Mrs. Warner knows from first hand experience the importance of the Aircraft Warning Service which has been set up since Pearl Harbor, and the vital need for the round-the-clock manning of the Observation Posts of the AWS.

Mrs. Warner's Four Hour Shift
Every Wednesday for more than a year, missing only two watches when she went to St. Louis to meet her husband when he was on furlough. Mrs. Warner's mother, Mrs. J. D. Akers, is also an observer at the Rockland O. P.

In March, 1943, Warner was sent from Hawaii to Moffett Field, California, for training at the lighter-than-air training school, and now has been assigned to duty at that field. Mrs. Warner plans to leave this week to join him.

Torch Fishing

Method Of Luring Mackerel Again Permitted With Some Restrictions

Torch fishing, formerly a valuable method of catching mackerel, herring and sardines, which had been banned because of dimout regulations, will be permitted again, within specified limitations. Rear Admiral R. A. Theobald, U.S.N., Commandant, First Naval District, announced today.

"Torching," as the fishermen call it, is the method of catching fish in shallow water, approximately 100 yards off shore, by exhibiting a strong light or flare which attracts the fish to the side of the boat, where they are brought up by dip nets.

Four regulations must be complied with, however, under the new permission. They are: (1) open flares will not be permitted; (2) appropriately shielded light of the electric or acetylene automobile headlamp type may be used provided no direct light shows above the horizontal level; (3) the person in charge of the boat must be an American citizen of good character; (4) each person in the boat must carry a Coast Guard identification card issued by the Captain of the Port; and (4) each boat must have a permit specifying the general area in which it may operate. This permit is obtainable from the Captain of the Port's office.

The original issue of the permit for torch fishing will be limited to a period of 3 days, subject to revocation at any time if objectionable sky-glow should appear. If, at the end of this period, experience shows that no serious sky-glow or silhouetting of vessels results, the permits may be renewed.

Army Air Corps, stationed at Chicago, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gilchrist of Vinalhaven, were married July 6 in the rectory of Holy Angels' parish, Upton, Mass., by Rev. Henry J. McCormick, pastor.

The bride was attired in a white frosted organdie gown, sweetheart neckline, Princess style with train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by orange blossoms. She carried a Colonial bouquet comprising bride's roses, sweet peas, delphinium and baby's breath.

Miss Nellie Warren, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was gown in rose taffeta with matching shoulder-length veil and carried a colonial bouquet including daisies, roses and sweet peas. Mary Richards, cousin of the bride, flower girl, was dressed in yellow taffeta and wore a poke bonnet. She had a miniature Colonial bouquet. Donald H. Amiro of Millville was best man.

A reception followed at the bride's parental home after which Pfc. and Mrs. Gilchrist left for Maine on a honeymoon.

The bride's traveling attire was an aqua suit with brown and white accessories and had a corsage of white roses, — from Worcester (Mass.) Telegram.

THOMASTON

Mrs. May Hamilton, Mrs. Frank Davis and Miss Allie Davis of Camptello, Mass., arrived Thursday and will spend the remainder of the summer at their home on West Main street.

In the surprise Blackout last Wednesday evening there was some confusion regarding lighting of houses and stopping traffic. If all will thoroughly acquaint themselves with these simple rules future misunderstanding should be eliminated: 1. Blackout. Householders blackout on the first warning and remain blacked out until they hear the church bells or see the town lights have come on. 2. Traffic. Traffic is stopped and pedestrians take cover when the warning consists of short, sharp blasts (Red). Traffic and pedestrians can move when the warning is one long blast (Blue). Which comes first depends on the Army. Listen to the warning for that will tell you what to do.

The war music service of the Federation of Music Clubs will share the proceeds from the silver collection taken Wednesday at the Baptist Choral Society concert at 8 o'clock.

Carolyn Collins, who was guest of Virginia and Enid Stanley two weeks has returned to her home in Old Town. She was accompanied by Virginia Stanley who will be her guest for two weeks.

The Memory Man

Begins Series of Sketches About the Great Prescelle, Hypnotist

(By Iree Member)

A Boston radio artist whose broadcasts are listened to by millions and who spent his youth in Rockland has asked me to write a sketch about "Prescelle," the hypnotist who, many years ago, created a real sensation in Rockland and pretty much all over the country.

Prescelle was in Rockland twice and on both occasions he performed in the old Farwell Opera House and I attended the performances both years that he came to Rockland. I believe that he performed a full week on each of these yearly trips and I guess I attended about every performance he gave.

I have always been a "funny gink"

Bernard Hastings is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Chester Overlock in Rockland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stanley of Arlington, Mass., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Welch for a few days.

The playground afternoon hours have been changed to 2 to 4 instead of the hours 1 to 4 as previously reported.

Thelma Wales, who is employed by the Curtis-Wright Aircraft Company in Buffalo, N. Y., is spending two weeks with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wales in Cushing.

Hope Paulsen is attending the Young People's Religious Conference in Romney, N. H.

Representative Margaret Chase Smith met her many friends here at Knox Hotel Tuesday while on her short visit in Knox County. She visited Mrs. Boat Shop and other places of interest while in town, before going Wednesday to Rockland.

Mrs. Arthur Davis and daughter Patricia, formerly of this town, and now of New York, are visiting Mrs. Leroy Wallace for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Kathleen Snow and daughters Lois and Naomi of Burlington, are guests of her brother Millard Snowman.

Mrs. Irene Radcliff of Worcester, Mass., is visiting Mrs. Nathaniel Stone for a week.

Services at the Baptist Church Sunday will be: Bible School at 9:45 o'clock; the morning service at 11, the pastor's subject being "Controlling the Tongue." Music will include the anthems "God Calling Yet" by F. H. Brackett and "There Is None Holy As The Lord" by Frederick Stevenson. Phyllis Hall and Audrey Simmons will be leaders when the Christian Endeavor meets at 6 o'clock. At the evening service the pastor will use as his topic, "God At Work in Us for the World."

The Annual Summer Concert of the Baptist Choral Society will be held next Wednesday, at 8 o'clock. Rand Smith, the well known baritone, will be a guest artist. At 6 o'clock there will be a chicken pie supper. Between the supper and the concert there will be a social hour.

An important business meeting of the members of the Congregational Church and Society will be held Friday night July 30 at 7 o'clock at the Methodist vestry.

"Somewhere In India"

Sgt. Emery Writes To the Home Folks, Voicing Disgust At Coal Strike

Somewhere in India, May 9,

Dear Folks:—

I guess it's about time I dropped you a line. In some ways time goes by so quickly that it's hard to realize that one is behind in correspondence. You try to remember when you wrote the last letter and until you get wondering about that you figure the one you last wrote hasn't yet reached its destination.

It is getting sultry here again, only the nights are cool and comfortable. There are plenty of hotter places than this, though, in India and other places, so I'm not complaining. Everyday I think I have a complaint to nurse I stop and think of the fellows up at the front lines and become pretty disgusted with myself for complaining about my little troubles.

The enlisted men and officers are all swell fellows, pulling together for the one great cause. If there is one nice thing, if there could be but one nice thing about a war, it is just that—people working together, pulling for and instead of against each other. This is one triumph of the army life over the civilian life, so one thing makes up for another.

We lose independence but we make friendships. We lose a certain amount of individuality but in place of that we have a common cause to fight for as people united. The luckiest people are people who have something to care about and we're all pretty much concerned with caring about victory so that we can have peace again at least for another 20 years so that we can get our second wind and live normal lives again for a while.

We realize that you people at home are giving up much, too, and this thought makes us admire you because some of you don't have to, you are only asked to, and people who do things when they aren't forced to have the right spirit to start with. You are now missing lots of things which once you didn't give much thought about. This was something we did from the time we joined the army in peacetime, but most of us joined the army because we had to and you people are co-operating even without the hammer being held over your head.

Sometimes I think that makes you much more noble and heroic than us. We were all quite disgusted over the coal mine workers strike, of course, but we realize that such people amount to only a mere handful when compared to the millions of people in America who are cheerfully helping us to win the war. Things like strikes, and so forth, always get to us via newspapers if not by people's letters, and of course the fact that those miners slowed up productions that were necessary is only one factor that makes them more or less fifth columnists. They also were lowering the morale of soldiers on foreign soil who were liable to forget all the nice things people are doing back home and concentrate on that outrageous incident and think to themselves, "What the hell is the use of all this if the folks back home aren't behind us?"

People get sick and tired of hearing about Army and Navy morale. Soldiers and sailors do, too. It is natural, I suppose. Everything gets monotonous when people make too much fuss and ado about it. However, there is such a thing as morale and it is important. Morale is not so much a matter of keeping the armed forces happy and delighted as it is from keeping them from being unhappy and depressed. There is a difference.

Few people are ever elated about everything all the time but when something happens to cause a definite discontentment and dissatisfaction, then it is dangerous; the bigger the thing you're fighting for, the more dangerous the discontentment—and it's a big thing we're after. How do you suppose those fellows up on the front lines felt about the coal strike being pulled? Boys giving up their lives if it's asked of them while some mean little people lay down on their job on the home front for one or two dollars a week when they're already making more than those guys who are in real danger and ask nothing of anyone?

I think Franklin D. did the right thing in drafting them right to their work which, I understand, is practically what he has done. Those miners committed the equivalent of desertion in the army for which a soldier would be stood up in front of a firing squad.

Comparing the British soldier with the American soldier, our government has done some pretty swell things for us. Our pay is higher, our uniforms are of far better material, among other things. When we stop and think that the government didn't have to do this for us and yet did it, it makes us feel pretty lucky. The British soldier has much envy toward our luck which is a natural feeling because his government is not backing him to the extent ours is. People who smack of erratic patriotism annoy me, but seeing it from all angles now, I know there is no country like ours. Everyone who didn't know it before knows it now and I guess that means a lot to us.

America is the envy of every nation in the world and it's no wonder the Japs and Germans would give their lives to get their teeth sunk into it. You can hardly blame them. But we're all beginning to doubt their ability at long last and we have circumstantial evidence if we can believe what we read and hear at all that their major successes are being cut down to a minimum. The only thing we're hoping now is that people back in the States don't take too much for granted now that we are coming into our own, which would be a dangerous thing. It isn't over yet by any means.

We have American movies sent to posts over here, particularly presented for American soldiers which we can see free of charge and which are privately shown on the post. They are movies that you pay to see back in the States and they are the best and often among the very latest. This is something else America didn't have to do. So far as I know producers make no money whatever from these showings to American forces. It is just their way of wanting to do their bit and it is just as important as if they were over here in uniform. We don't forget this even when a picture comes along that we don't care about.

Incidentally, I saw a good show last night. It was called "The War Against Mrs. Hadley." If you haven't seen this movie and it comes to the theatre at home, don't miss it. It's a simple story of a woman who thought the war was none of her business until it touched her in such a way that her whole perspective of life changed. It was powerful in its very simplicity and it was a picture that made you do a lot of thinking if you have that lot of mind. I would call it one of the great pictures of the decade, though of course it didn't have the publicity and fanfare that accompanies a Cecil B. DeMille extravaganza. Big things come in little packages is a wise slogan and that doesn't need any salting.

I can't think of much else to say. I have aired my views and am now as empty as a barrel upside down. I am well and safe and you are not to worry about me. What changes the future may bring we don't know but so far we have been very lucky. If anything is going to happen to me it could easily be that when I get back home I'll tumble on the front walk and break a leg. That'll be because I'm hurrying a little too fast to get to the door to see you all again.

Take care of yourselves now and save your old razor blades and don't hoard sugar because I always take two teaspoonsful in my coffee over here.

She's as lively as a youngster—Now her backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or uneasy passages with smarting and burning sometimes above there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"We Must Not Fall Them." is the theme for Sunday morning at the Rockport Methodist Church. In the evening at 7 o'clock the Sunday School will present a Student Day program, "The Church Victorious," which will include special musical numbers. There will be no week-

Daughter Of Former Rockland Girl (nee Florence Haley) Married In Texas

White gladioli, greenery and white tapers burning in tall candelabra decorated the Fort Sam Houston Post Chapel for the wedding of Miss Florence Cowie, and Capt. Lester J. Larsen, son of Mrs. Leo Larsen of Minneapolis, Minn. Chaplain C. A. Sharbaugh of Randolph Field officiated at the ceremony.

Sgt. E. Fred McGowan played the organ and Miss Patricia Carr sang several nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by Brig. Gen. C. K. Nulsen, was gowned in white lace fashioned with a neckline embroidered in pearls. Her veil of white illusion, which extended to the end of her long train, was caught to a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and calla lilies.

Miss Grace Cowie, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Cowie, another sister of the bride, Betsy Ann Evers, Dorothy Johnson, Adele Mulkey, Bette Hollett and Marie Keleher. The bridesmaids were dressed in pale blue marquisette and the maid of honor was in pale pink. They wore matching hats of horsehair braided flowers and carried bouquets of pastel blossoms.

Lt. Col. W. E. Griffin was the best man and the groomsmen were Capt. Stephen Higgenbotham, Lt. Louis Rogers, Jack Zimmerman, William Stanley, Burrut Dutcher, B. R. Watson, Johnny Moses and D. B. Hardiman.

A reception followed on the terrace of the Fort Sam Officers' Club. In the receiving line were Mrs. Cowie, the bride and bridegroom, Miss Dix Larsen of Minneapolis, Minn., and members of the bridal party. The table was laid with a white fluted cloth and centered by a bowl of white blossoms flanked by white tapers in silver candelabra. Miss Nancy Brand was in charge of the bride's book.

For traveling, the bride wore an aquamarine lightweight wool suit with a white blouse and brown accessories. She wore an aqua calot and an orchid corsage. The couple will be at home at Fort Sam Houston after a wedding trip to Minneapolis, Minn.—From the San Antonio (Texas) Express.

This And That

By K. S. F.

Those who think it's about over, the trouble with Japan, had best heed former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and his wide-awake warning that "Even when we can turn our entire attention to Japan, let us not for a moment think that we can regard with complacency the problems of defeating that enemy."

Yes, the king of condiments is no other than the concentrated ready-prepared curry sauce to be found on most grocery shelves, made by a perfection formula of at least 100 centuries of Indian cooking genius. This brand is put together by an American woman who lived many long years in India and was given this perfect formula that belongs to the ages.

The sauce contains all necessary ingredients for genuine curry—every last thing but the meat, and that you must add. Into this blending go apples, carrots, onions, corn, coconut, tomato paste, green peppers, garlic and the curry powder, which in itself is a compound of more than twenty spices. Curry powder's usual prescription runs something like this: turmeric, celery seed, fenugreek, ginger, poppy seed, cardamom, coriander, cayenne, paprika, mace, cinnamon, cloves, bay leaves, black pepper, nutmeg and more, all finely ground and mixed in varying proportions.

And Summer is the ideal time to dip into a curry, the world's most cooling dish, native to all tropical countries. It is "the stomach's warm comforter," providing efficient personal central heating, causing the body temperature to rise. By comparison, the most torrid day seems delightfully cool. In Hindustan, virtually every member of its 390,000,000 inhabitants eats curry three times a day every day in the year. There the curry variations are infinite. Infinite, too, are the uses for curry sauce, aside from making a straight curry. Add a small amount to the soup for the zest of spice. Spread curry sauce on chops before broiling. Mix curry sauce with chopped meat or vegetables or blend it with cream cheese for the prickle of heat it gives to a sandwich filling. Mix a small amount of curry sauce with mayonnaise and there is new spiciness for dressing salads of fruit.

The two men longest in business in Dover-Foxcroft, it is said, are Liston P. Evans of the Piscataquis Observer, and Elmer E. Cole. Both started as druggists. Mr. Evans 65 years ago; and Mr. Cole about 50. Mr. Evans is the only survivor of those listed in the Maine Register from that town in 1878.

Voice Sent By Mail

"Fonopost," by which a voice recording may be sent by mail, is to be launched in Argentina, according to an announcement in Buenos Aires. The postoffice department will install booths where the sender may have his voice recorded on an unbreakable record. About 200 words can be included, and the disc can be played on any phonograph. The record is mailed in a special envelope, the total charge being 22 cents for any destination in Argentina. Later senders will be able to record from their homes by telephone.

The Portuguese man-of-war fish is the only creature not affected by the poisonous sting of the Portuguese man-of-war jellyfish.

A blood donor's blood is usually fully replenished within six or seven weeks after a pint has been taken from his veins.

Dr. Rufus Jones, international figure among the Friends, who Summers at his native place in South China (Maine) is quoted in a recent Friend's Intelligence: "God's work, the doing of His will, is extraordinarily inclusive—raising food on the land, ordering a nurturing home, taking care of a child with loving insight, speaking simple truth, spreading love abroad in any spot of the world, praying and working for the Kingdom of God, being a cup of strength in some great agony, being heroic in quiet ways, saying the right word when others do not dare, walking straight forward in the path of duty—these are some of the ways of doing God's will."

There is a lot said in Maine papers about a Maine coast swap-shop, but where is it? How can one get to it. Why don't they put some good adds in the papers and let people know where it is located?

MAUD B. PAYSON

Services for Maud B. Payson, 63, wife of Clarence M. Payson, who died July 16 were conducted Sunday at home by Rev. Zebadiah Andrews, and interment was in East Union Cemetery.

Mrs. Payson had been active in the affairs of this community, and in the Grange. For some years she had been a member of the installing team headed by James Dornan, master of Pioneer Grange, and her work in that respect was characteristic of all she undertook—excellent. As a neighbor, friend and home maker, she will be greatly missed.

She was born in this town, daughter of Marshall and Clara Rokes Davis.

She was a member of Pioneer Grange of East Union, Knox Pomona Grange, the State and National Granges. For 15 seasons, she had been cook at Beaver Camp. Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Merton of Union, Roland of East Union; one brother, Everett Davis of Long Island, N. Y.; and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Dorothy Teel of Matinicus and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hutchings of Bath, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lyford Ames of St. George for several days, have gone to Portland for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins of Milford, Conn., are visiting Mrs. Hopkins mother, Mrs. Elonia Tuttle, Broadway.

An all day session of Red Cross sewing was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Frank Horeysek, Amesbury street, by women of the Methodist Church. There was a box luncheon.

Mrs. Valma Hilton has returned from Norfolk, Va., where she has been visiting her husband, who is stationed there.

Miss Jacquelyn Snow is in Bar Harbor, where she is visiting her aunt, Miss Freda Snow, 8 Roberts square.

The Garden Club

Mrs. Loana Shibbes To Lecture At Next Tuesday's Meeting

Rockland Garden Club members' attention is called to the next meeting, in Masonic Temple, at 2 p. m., July 27, at which time Mrs. Loana Shibbes, under auspices of the Extension Department of the U. of M., will give a lecture on the latest methods of drying, salting and canning, both by hot water and pressure cooker methods, of fruits and tomatoes, which she will provide. Members may invite as many guests as they wish.

The exhibit of dried herbs, herb vinegars etc., will be on display and the proceeds from sale of same are used toward the upkeep of the Hospital garden. There are also simple recipes for using herbs.

If time permits there will be other items of interest presented for the members.

JENNIE R. WILBER

Mrs. Jennie R. Wilber, younger daughter of the late James P. and Nancy J. (Sweetser) Robinson, of Rockland, died July 13 in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, where she was taken after a week's illness in the Prince George Hotel, New York where she had lived for several years.

Mrs. Wilber was born in Rockland, learned stenography and obtained a position with the Edison Company in New York City, residing in Orange, N. J., with her parents and brother. In 1894 she married Bertram P. Wilber, an engineer in the employ of the Edison Company, and thereafter lived in Great Neck, Long Island until her husband's death in 1932.

Mrs. Wilber survived her 72d birthday anniversary by only four hours. She came from a long-lived family; the average at death of all her parents and grandparents, all natives of Maine, was 86 years; the oldest was her maternal grandmother, Nancy Willis Sweetser, who died at age 94. She is survived by a brother, Charles A. Robinson, of East Orange, N. J., who is in excellent health in his 77th year; and a sister, Margaret (Mrs. C. M. Thomas) of 8 Spruce street, Rockland, who is in poor health in her 83d year.

Mrs. Wilber had an unusually cheerful disposition, made friends easily, and kept them all. She thoroughly enjoyed life. She was interred in the Bellows family plot in beautiful Woodlawn Cemetery in New York City, beside her husband.

The present Mrs. Bellew, of O'Connell, N. J., and the Wilbers were great friends, and Mrs. Bellew gave permission for their burial in her family plot. Her late husband was the son of Frank P. W. Bellew, who created the famous Punch-like character "Chip," that gave amusement to millions of people a half century ago. He died in 1894; there is carved on his monument a bust of "Punch" and this inscription: "He made men merry."

"The National Cyclopaedia of American Biography states that 'The work of both father and son provided amusement without slapstick vulgarity.'"

Mrs. Annie Collamore, Camden road, entertained the E. F. A. Club Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Millie Thomas and Mrs. Florence Philbrook were winners of bridge honors.

Mrs. Delia B. Sullivan is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Brown in Alfred.

Mrs. Warren A. Hamilton and son, Eugene Arthur, of Portland, have been recent guests of Mrs. Hamilton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond K. Green. Frank L. Emery of Portland also visited his sister, Mrs. Greene.

SERMONETTE

Forward, Baptists!

Baptists have always prided themselves on their individuality in matters concerning religion—Each Baptist Church an independent unit—a law unto itself.

The wonder is that this denomination has grown so great, when it is apparently so loosely held together. Within the great circle called "Baptists" there appears to be constant warfare. There are Liberals, fundamentalists and a great middle of the road group now known as conservatives. At odds with themselves, each group steadfastly upholds the doctrines that mark them as Baptists. They carry this matter of independence too far. Not one of them alone can claim to be the Baptists; together they make up the great Christian body of believers that make up the Baptist denomination.

In the course of a long life, in the tropics, in the deep South, in North Carolina, in South Carolina, and Tennessee, in the northern tier of the States and Middle West, I have addressed and worked with these same Baptists for over half a century. In every Baptist Church I ever entered, with every Baptist minister and leader with whom I have come in contact, I have found them to be Baptists. These differences over which they fret, amount to nothing. They simply held back the progress of God's Kingdom upon earth, preventing the United front called for in the post war days so soon to be.

There is a group today in the Northern Baptist Convention who wish to have two Missionary Societies. Yet the present Society is so distinctly Baptist, that to add another is to face the post war work with two Missionary Societies with divided interests and power.

It won't do; the demands of Christianity call for unity. One Lord, one faith, one baptism is not rhetoric. It is a goal to ward which all faiths must strive. Forward, Baptists.

In the United Episcopal Parish of S. S. Peter, John and George, Rev. E. O. Kenyon, rector, services for the Feast of St. James the Apostle will be: At St. Peter's Holy Eucharist and sermon at 9:30; at St. George's, Long Cove—Vespers and sermon at 4 p. m.; at St. John's, Thomaston—Vespers and sermon at 7 p. m. Daily Mass at St. Peter's at 7:30 except Monday and Saturday.

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday July 25. The Golden Text is: "It is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth" (I John 5:6). The citations from the Bible include the following passages: Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth; unite my heart to fear thy name" (Psalms 86:11).

Sunday at the Littlefield Memorial Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. Charles A. Marsteller, will speak at 10:30 on "God's Faithful Remnant," special music will be provided. Sunday School follows at 11:45 with classes for all ages. Young People's meeting at 6 o'clock with Marion Bartlett leader of the Juniors and Norma Munro leader of the seniors. "Noah, the Man of Faith," will be the text of the sermon at 7:15, and there will be special music. Mid-week prayer and praise service Tuesday night at 7:30. Visitors are always welcomed.

At the Nazarene Church, Mavrick Square, services Sunday will be: Sunday school at 2 p. m., followed by worship service at 3; and evening meeting at 7:30. Rev. Curtis Stanley will preach, and special music will be provided.

At Pratt Memorial Methodist Church Sunday the pastor, Rev. Alfred G. Hempstead, will preach at 10:45 on the subject "A High Way." At the same hour the Nursery school will meet for the convenience of parents who wish to have their children cared for while attending church service. Church school will meet at noon. The Vacation Church school, which began July 19, will continue throughout the week, meeting from 9 to 11:30, with closing exhibition Friday night at 7 o'clock. The attendance the first week was not large; others may come during the second week. Prayer meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30. There will be all day sewing for the Red Cross Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Wallace Little, 360 Broadway.

"The Tower of Pisa and Old World Faith" will be the subject of Rev. Roy A. Welker's sermon at the Congregational Church Sunday morning at 10:45.

At the First Baptist Church in the 10:30 morning worship service, Rev. Charles C. Howse will discuss the question, "Does It Make Any Difference What a Man Believes?" The Church School will follow this service at 11:45, and those of all ages are invited. The Christian Endeavor "Inspiration Hour" for all young people will be held at 6. The evening service will open at 7:15 with the informal hymn sing, and Mr. Howse will speak on "Salvage." The talented baritone, Rand Smith, will continue to be the soloist a both services.

PORTLAND HEAD

What happened? We have been wondering if all the light keepers have gone to war, on a strike or what really did happen?

F. O. Hilt was on business Sunday afternoon at Cape Elizabeth. Mrs. Sterling and Mrs. Hilt went along and called on Mrs. Elliott at the Light.

E. C. Stoddard of Peaks Island called on the Sterlings Tuesday afternoon.

R. T. Sterling recently called on his son Robert T. Sterling Jr. and family in Portland.

Mrs. Sterling, Mrs. Hilt and Mrs. W. C. Dow were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stoddard, Peaks Island.

Thomas J. Sampson, Lt. Commander U. S. Coast Guard inspected the station Saturday.

The Hilt and Mrs. R. T. Sterling when out after supplies and waiting for the evening papers to arrive from Portland, recently called on Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Mitchell, South Portland.

When last Sunday rolled around we were very much alone. Our usual Sunday afternoon and evening gang failed to show up.

WASHINGTON—AND YOU

By Margaret Chase Smith

Washington, July 21—I did not oppose OPA appropriations because I could not see how we could expect more efficiency with less money, but this does not mean that I approve of the administration of this agency. Instead I think there is no excuse for some of the things they do.

I have just written to Prentiss Brown, OPA Director, asking why gasoline is being allowed for vacations under some circumstances. So far as I can find out, no more gasoline is coming to the East Coast and if there is the military demands abroad are mounting.

If that is so, how is there more gasoline to be used for vacations? Or has there been gasoline all the time? It looks as though decisions change with each pressure group. I have told Mr. Brown I am glad if it is possible to allow gasoline for vacations, but why were we told that there would not be? Why not delay decisions until ready to make final announcement and then stick to it? "Do you wonder that our people have no confidence in Washington?" That is what I wrote him just before leaving Washington.

I stayed in Washington for 10 days after the adjournment of Congress, to attend to official business. Since then I have started going through the District, two days in each county, so that I can talk to those who have business to talk over with me. I am also seeing a few others between buses and trains. It is always a pleasure to see friends. Congress is in session most of the year now, and only short trips home are possible during the session, so that I do not have as much personal contact as I would like.

The session just ended has been long and has involved much anxious consideration of votes. The session ahead will be the same. I hope after visiting in each county to spend a few days at my home in Skowhegan and then to go "off the record" for a vacation for a week or so in August. I plan to return to the Capitol the first of September so as to get ready for the months ahead.

Since getting into the District, I am more than ever impressed with the hardships of essential users of gasoline. But also there is anxiety about building up stocks of fuel oil and coal. This means that every bit of available transportation must be saved for coal and oil, after essential gasoline users have been served. These delightful Summer days sometimes cause us to forget the cold days of Winter.

Just before leaving Washington I received a letter from a star route mail carrier saying that he had been unable to get gasoline, and that perhaps made my letter to Mr. Brown a little sharper because the mails, doctors, and other essential needs must be served first before vacation driving.

The star route carrier who wrote me said that he also is responsible for local telephone service, and has not been able to get enough gas for that either. I know of no more essential service than the telephone, and I agreed with him that it was "ridiculous" to think of using gasoline for unessential driving when mail, telephone, and war workers, which include farmers, cannot get gas.

In reply to my complaint to the War Production Board about starting a program of manufacturing 100,000 dehydrators, while the pressure canner program is so far behind schedule, I have received a letter from Deputy Administrator Lee Marshall, who says that manufacturers of pressure cookers do not make dehydrators and therefore there will be no interference. But I still believe that new programs should not be started until others are nearer perfection.

I received from Miss Florence Jenkins, of the State Education Department and Canning Center Projects of Augusta, a wire saying the Burpee Company was releasing 100 canners to Maine, with more to come, so I am hoping that we will soon have our quota of 250. I do not expect to get many from the additional manufacturing program, this year, but it will help next year. Since we will have to help feed the world, we will be continuing phases of our food conservation program for some time to come, I believe. Mr. Marshall says that the delay in getting out the cookers has been due to the critical materials involved, inability of manufacturers to get steel from mills, need for designing and obtaining approval for alternate type of pressure gauge. If plans could be made earlier and needs anticipated far enough in advance there would not be so much delay and confusion.

I was very pleased that Congress in its last days of session, passed a bill which will permit States to pay the medical bills of service men's wives and allow them their choice of obstetric services when their babies are born. I am sorry that the law will not be retroactive, and that some mothers who did not have regular physicians will not get reimbursement from Federal funds. However, I think each mother who had this difficulty, should take it up with the Maine Department of Maternal and Child Welfare and see what if anything can be done individually.

Under the pensions law, States could adopt a plan for taking care of wives of service men when they bore children, and these State plans had to have approval of the Federal Children's Bureau. The Maine plan provided for reimbursement only when doctors of medicine were employed. State plans will now have to be changed to agree with the new law allowing reimbursement when any one practicing obstetrics is employed.

APPLETON

Mrs. Mona McIntosh, of Rockland, was supper guest, Saturday, of Mrs. Carolyn Page.

Mrs. Blanche Brown is ill. Mrs. Delmar Brown is also ill and is being cared for by Mrs. Clara Sweetland.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McIntosh, and Mrs. Dorothy McIntosh were Rockland visitors, Wednesday.

Mrs. Carolyn Page suffered a broken wrist Wednesday the result of a fall out of a doorway.

The entertainment committee for the next Rebekah meeting is Ruth Arrington and Clara Sweetland.

Mrs. Carolyn Page was a business caller Tuesday in Rockland.

AND THE KNOX-LINCOLN FARM BUREAU

Agricultural Notes

Albert Orff of Cushing, chairman of the Knox County War Board, and Wallace E. Spear of North Nobleboro, chairman of the Lincoln County War Board, are in the Rockland office every Monday. Any farmer having difficulty in obtaining gas or farm machinery should contact one of the above chairmen at the office of the Post Office building.

The Knox County Poultry Improvement Association will meet at the home of Charles Kigel, North Warren, Tuesday night, July 27, at 8 o'clock. Prof. J. R. Smyth of the poultry department, Orono, will be the speaker. His subject will be, "The Present Grain Situation."

Plans are being made by President Wallace Spear of the Knox-Lincoln County Farm Bureau for the August meeting of the executive board. The meeting this year will be in Pemaquid and plans for next year's Extension Service program will be arranged.

With The Homes

Many women who are serving on the home front this year by canning have asked how many quarts of canned food can be secured from certain raw vegetables and fruits. Home Canning Guide by Kathryn

E. Briwas, Extension Foods Specialist, gives the following approximate yield of products.

|-------------------------|---------------|
| 1 bu. Apples, | 17 qts. |
| 1 bu. Shell Beans, | 16 pts. |
| 1 bu. String Beans, | 16 qts. |
| 32 qt. Blueberries, | 16 qts. |
| 100 ears Corn, | 20 pts. |
| 1 bu. Greens, | 4 to 6 qts. |
| 1 bu. Peaches (sliced), | 16 qts. |
| 1 bu. Peas in pod, | 14 qts. |
| 32 qts. Raspberries, | 16 qts. |
| 32 qts. Strawberries, | 16 qts. |
| 1 bu. Tomatoes, | 15 to 18 qts. |

The Community Canning Center opened Monday morning at the Rockland High School building. Anyone wishing to have canning done at the Center should make arrangements with Mrs. Freda Brackett, telephone Rockland 1013-R.

Trained personnel and up-to-date equipment such as pressure cookers and tin can sealers are available at the Community Canning Center for your convenience. The Department of Agriculture recommends the pressure cooker for canning non-acid vegetables such as greens, beans, and peas because it is safer and quicker. The Center has cans for sale at approximately four cents and a fraction per can for those women who prefer their canning done in tin.

Believe it or not, even with all the boys away at war, here is one lady who doesn't have a single free evening until mid-September. Appeal? You betcha she has.

Every reservable space—berths, and rooms too—in the regularly assigned cars on the "State of Maine Express" between Portland and New York has already been sold for every night between now and September 15.

We're sorry but in wartime it is seldom possible to obtain additional sleeping cars for the "State of Maine Express". Troop trains need all the extra sleeping cars these days.

So, please don't waste your time by asking, writing or 'phoning for space on the "State of Maine" until after Sept. 15.

If you must go from Portland to New York, there are a limited number of day coaches (some with reclining seats) carried each night on the "State of Maine Express". But they can't accommodate all who want to use this popular train. Some travelers will have to use the route via Boston.

We'll appreciate your understanding and cooperation. Please don't ask us for reserved space on the "State of Maine Express" for it's ALL SOLD OUT UNTIL AFTER SEPTEMBER 15.
